UNIQUE

Reproduction Of The Capitol At Washington

Constructed Of Soap In Lawler's Show Window

A unique display has just been placed in the south window of the Lawler Pharmacy of this city, it consisting of the National Capitol at Washington being perfectly reproduced in an artistic manner out of cakes of soap. The display is the work of Mr. H. R. Baker of Dayton, who represents a large Cincinnati soap house, who takes this manner of introducing their commodity to the public. Monday, as is noted by a page ad in this issue, will mark the inauguration of a guessing contest, the object being to guess the number of cakes of soap used in the construction of the Capitol building and for the first nine nearest estimates prizes will be awarded.

The display is very realistic and much interest has been shown since its production. The large columns of liberty, the stone steps leading up to the doorway, the green grass and the large dome, which is lighted by electricity, all of which can be seen with acute accuracy, show that Mr. Baker is no amateur in his line. Mr. Lawler was lucky in securing this display as it is being placed in only the large drug stores of the country. You want to see it.
